

I travel all the time for business and work. I use my XM for local weather and information. I do not have local station numbers, nor do I care to wait for that information from a local station. As long as I am paying for a service, I should have no problem accessing that information. XM has been a huge success because the people demand it and are willing to pay for it. Value for the dollar. This is how business should be conducted.